

DONEY PARK WATER
(Hereinafter Company)

DPW's standard policy is to have a statement from the property owner or manager on file, indicating whether they wish to remain the member of record or they may refuse membership in the Association. If the owner or manager agrees to retain membership, the account may be set up under the renter's name, but the owner or manager will be jointly responsible for the water bill and hold joint membership with the renter. This will also enable the owner or manager to retain voting rights in the Association. The account will automatically revert back to the owner's/manager's name when there is no renter. There is no charge for this. If this is your choice, please indicate by checking the appropriate box on the enclosed form. If you want this option to remain in effect until you change it in writing, be sure to check the appropriate box for that as well.

If the owner refuses membership, the account will be set up under the renter's name. When the renter leaves, the account will not revert back into the owner's name, and water will be turned off. The owner will need to contact DPW for a turn-on and complete necessary paperwork and pay all set up fees ($125.77). If this is your choice, please indicate by checking the appropriate box on the enclosed form. If you want this option to remain in effect until you change it in writing, be sure to check the appropriate box for that as well.
